

ECON 4070001 TOPICS IN MICROECONOMICS

Instructor: Professor Scott Savage

Office: ECON 21 (north-west corner of ground floor in economics building)

Intermediate Microeconomics: A Modern Approach by Hal Varian, W.W.Norton and Company (any latter edition).

Class requirements

The class meets Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 1 to 1.50pm. The critical thinking required for successful completion of this course may not come naturally for many students. In-class exposure to model building, group exercises, applied problems and solutions via class attendance is the best way to become proficient in the application of microeconomic theory and the way economists think and solve problems.

Craig and Savage (2014) show that a ten percent increase in attendance is associated with a one percentage point improvement in final exams for undergraduate industrial organization students, which could mean the difference between a grade D or C & B or A. ³, Q V W U X F W R U S D Q G 6 W X G H Q W 3 H U I R U P D Q F H (Y L G H Q F H I U R P D Q 8 Q G H U J U D G X International Review of Economics Education 2014 17, 5565.

Feel free to form study groups to review and discuss lecture/reading material, homework assignments etc., but you must submit individual work for grading (if you work with a study group or individual classmate on assignments, please list the names of these persons on the front page of your submitted assignment).

Students should:

- (a) attend three 50 minute lectures per week;
- (b) review and augment notes after lectures;
- (c) complete (a minimum of five out of six) homework assignments;
- (d) complete two quizzes;
- (e) complete one
